I waited 3 years to pick out another schnauzer after the loss of the prior one of 18 years of age Cricket. I literally prayed for a little Angel from heaven to comfort me, have fun with me, protect me, make me laugh and when I got her at 5 weeks old both my mama and I said “ She’s the one” at the same time when her breeder turned this shy tiny girl around. She had a hard start of life with a deadly disease and the veterinary she should not even be alive right now, but she didn’t know how sick she was, that her little fighting spirit & love for me kept her going. She had never been trained, but to our surprise she did everything she was told. Her whole life, she would hug my neck and put pressure squeezing my neck with her paws, she always felt like a little Angel or a person, when I cried, no matter where she was or what she was doing, she’d run up hug my neck and lick every tear away. She knew my every emotion I had and did whatever to get my attention & make me laugh. She was my support furbaby . I taught her Easter egg hunting, open her own presents, she would do whatever I did. When she would first see the Christmas tree, she would howl with a WoooooooWooooo! Every year. We are both April babies and she was born on Earth day, April 22nd. I just lost my mama in 2021, for me she was there always ready to comfort me. She was exactly what I prayed for and so very much more. An Amazing loving unique treasure she was, and along with the holes in my heart over losing my parents, there aren’t words to describe the hole she has left in my life & heart is immeasurable. REST IN PEACE SWEET ANGEL GIRL, you are with Mama

& Daddy now. ♥♥♥♥I LOVE YOU FOREVER ♥

“ I remember when you brought her home and named her CJ. You were busy getting your Criminal Justice degree. She was an amazing dog daughter ❤️
