

Ecko Mires

March 15, 2026

Ecko was the kind of dog people spend a lifetime hoping to find—the kind whose presence changes a home into something warmer, safer, and more whole. He was, in every sense, a gift from God. He was ever-present—woven into daily life, into routines, into memories that will never fade. Ecko was highly intelligent, fiercely loyal, and a devoted protector. He left an imprint and a bond that time can never erase.

Though he may no longer walk beside us, his presence remains in the countless moments that now live on as cherished memories. Ecko was more than a pet. He was family. He was home. And he will always be remembered as the extraordinary soul he was.
