

Jedi

December 29, 2025

Jedi was a sassy, greatly-loved boy. I promised him when he was leaving this earth that I would not lie and say he was the sweetest boy ever or any other tall tales. He was always super cheeky and liked to be the boss (even if it was just an illusion). He enjoyed pushing mom around with his chest and was never a delicate treat taker. He would put on a good, manly show for anyone going by the front door or in the alley but then would refuse to go outside if allowed. Anyone attempting to remove the kitchen trash bag or run the vacuum was in for a wild adventure with him. Cuddles or affection came on his terms and his terms only. Despite all this—he was a fierce protector of the tiny humans and refused their mother any chance of disciplining them. Jedi was a vital part of our pack and he is genuinely missed. Fly high my boy—enjoy your time with Tyson, Oliver and Mamie!! Love you BIG!!
