

Simba

September 24, 2024

Simba was born in April 2009 and I got him when he was only a couple months old. My sister had his brother and they were both loving and sweet as can be. Simba made it to September of 2024 before we lost his beautiful soul. I was lucky enough to get 15 years with my baby boy. Fifteen years of loyalty, love and companionship. Having him by my side for half of my life was heart warming, but losing him was heartbreaking. He was well trained and such a happy dog. He loved his toys, sweaters and car rides. We miss him dearly, but we are glad he is no longer in pain. September 24th is the day he crossed the rainbow bridge. As hard as it is, I still feel his presence in the sunsets and I know that he's at peace up there. He will always be my one and only baby boy. We will miss you Bubby, bubs, sim, simby, bubba. We love you and we will never forget you ♡

“ Awwwe my grand dog was my baby boy, he knew his grandma loved him💕💕 He would always sleep next to my bed and lay with me on the couch when he was at my house. When I dog sat at his house he was always by my side, jumped right up in the bed to cuddle grandma. I love you and miss you so much bubby R.I.P grandma's boy💕

So sorry for your loss. I know the pain you are in now, I've lived through many in my lifetime. They never stay long enough but while they are here, they give us love, loyalty and so many memories. Hold those memories close to your heart always. R.I.P. little Simba. 💕
