

Zeus

October 2, 2023

Zeus was the greatest fur buddy ever. He weighed about 80 pounds but still thought he was a small lap dog. He loved everyone he ever met, especially my grandkids. His favorite things in the world were playing outside with the water hose and cuddling up at the end of the day in the same recliner I sat in. He would always steal the blanket when he got cold and dare you to take it away from him. He was diagnosed with lymphoma about 8 weeks before he passed. I will truly miss my friend, he was one of a kind, gentle but ready to protect who he loved. I can't thank FurrEver for the excellent care they gave us. When the time came that he was ready to go home, they were right there by my side. Thank you again.
